Lee Gold is a Principal and Financial Wellness consultant in Mercer's Denver office. He has been with Mercer for 19 years and has nearly 30 years of employee benefit consulting experience. Lee works with a variety of clients including hospitals, manufacturing and transportation companies, and government contractors.

Earlier in his career, Lee was a corporate actuary and had the opportunity to design and develop valuation software for both pension and retiree medical plans. At Mercer, Lee has consulted with employers regarding, plan design, and risk management strategies for their pension, defined contribution, and retiree medical programs. Lee's passion for optimal plan designs has led to creative and innovative solutions, as well as numerous speaking engagements, primarily on the topic of risk-sharing pension plan designs.

With employees increasingly being asked to take more individual responsibility for their health and wealth, Lee's current focus is consulting with companies regarding their financial wellness programs, helping with strategy development and execution.

Lee graduated Cum Laude from Brigham Young University with a bachelor's degree in statistics. He is an Associate in the Society of Actuaries, an Enrolled Actuary, and a Member of the American Academy of Actuaries.
